

ABSTRACT

A media transfer device includes an inlet opening, an outlet opening, a screen, and a two-way mirror, such that, when an image is projected through the inlet opening and is reflected off of the two-way mirror onto the screen, a recorder located at the 5 outlet opening may record the screen image as seen through the two-way mirror.